

January 2009

We are excited to share the newly designed Tura 2009 Catalog with you and your accounts. From the artistic cover design on the outside, to the new page designs inside, the new look of our 2009 Catalog is sure to please.

We've added a spread to the beginning of the 2009 Catalog, titled the Tura Advantage. This spread does a wonderful job of highlighting the unique business features and principals that set Tura apart from our competitors. Tura Advantage also features a page that provides a description for every collection in our diverse portfolio.

The 2009 catalog was also designed to be used in conjunction with the new online catalog. We are looking forward to the launch of our newly designed tura.com website which includes a comprehensive online catalog from which your accounts may place orders.

For ease of reference, the online catalog will display multiple frame images at once. The 2009 Catalog will follow closely to this by a new format of featuring 6-models per page.

The new website is promoted at the bottom of each page of the catalog as well as with preview models.

We will keep you informed of the website launch date – planned for early 2009.
